INTO LIFE-CHANGING DISCOVERIES
AND TRANSFORMATIVE GENEROSITY

2017 PHILANTHROPY REPORT
JULY 1, 2016 – JUNE 30, 2017

MAGEE-WOMENS
RESEARCH INSTITUTE &
FOUNDATION

FROM THE DESK OF THE CEO

The annual report is a window into the life-changing work that you have made possible as a donor to Magee-Womens Research Institute and Foundation. It would be difficult to list every accomplishment in one concise report, so we have selected a cross-section of achievements that represent some of the very best in women's and reproductive health research, as well as stories highlighting the impact you--our donors--have made.

This is not just a record of our achievements, but yours. With every breakthrough or promising development, you share in our success. Thanks to your support and collaboration with valued partners, our researchers are working to eliminate Zika and HIV, improve fertility in cancer patients, develop new and better treatments for breast and ovarian cancer, understand and intervene on premature births, and improve the quality of life for aging women. Answers don't come easy, and your donations help our researchers to sustain complex projects and test multiple hypotheses to tackle critical women's health challenges.

This work will gain even greater prominence in the next year as we launch the Magee Prize and Summit, thanks to the generous support of the Richard King Mellon Foundation. The Magee Summit will bring the world's top medical minds to Pittsburgh to exchange ideas and ultimately to select the winners of the Magee Prize, a one million dollar prize rewarding the most innovative work in women's health.

On behalf of all of our staff, clinicians and researchers, thank you for your financial contributions and your support. Whether you made a donation or grant, attended one of our many events, volunteered, or held a collection drive, you have influenced women's health for the better. We hope to see you in the following year, and I encourage you to invite your friends, family and colleagues to get involved, too. You may just help us to make the next life-saving connection.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'M. Annichine', with a large, sweeping flourish at the end.

Michael J. Annichine
President and CEO
Magee-Womens Research Institute and Foundation

A WINDOW INTO THE PAST YEAR

Groundbreaking Research into Global Women's Health Issues

Investigators from the Women's Cancer Research Center, a collaboration between MWRI and the UPMC Hillman Cancer Center, discovered that precision medicine and tailored treatments for breast cancer can improve diagnosis and therapies for patients with breast tumors and brain metastatic tumors. MWRI was also part of a collaborative project that found that estrogen treatments long used in breast cancer patients may also be beneficial to ovarian cancer patients. Researchers in the Microbicide Trials Network (MTN) housed within Magee-Womens Research Institute confirmed that a vaginal ring containing an antiretroviral drug was safe and reduced HIV risk in women and adolescent girls. The Cura Zika Alliance is working to uncover the relationship between Zika and microcephaly and discover a vaccine.

Dr. Carola Neumann, a member of the Women's Cancer Research Center, working in the lab.

Developing Powerful Tools to Solve High Infant Mortality

The power and utility of the Magee Obstetrical Maternal Infant Database (MOMI) will increase significantly thanks to a $4M grant from the Richard King Mellon Foundation. This grant will allow researchers to collect up to 500 variables, giving a 360-degree view into the lives of mothers and babies with risk of death before the age of one. The longitudinal data from 20 years of clinical data will help collaborators to develop a predictive model for prevention, and clinical interventions to reduce infant mortality. An additional $1M will fund 10 research projects chosen for their potential to reduce infant mortality in the short-term.

Harnessing Expertise of Researchers and Advocates

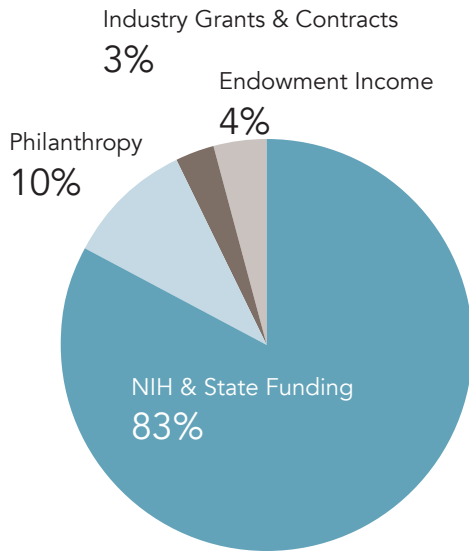

The Women's Cancer Research Center convened the first International Invasive Lobular Cancer (ILC) Symposium where 32 of the world's leading ILC researchers discussed with patient advocates the latest clinical research related to the second most common subtype of breast cancer. Greatly expanding our outreach, MWRI partnered with Women's Health Conversations, a lifestyle brand with an online community reaching 6.8 million, on a conference to educate women about research advances and lifestyle choices.

Women's Cardiovascular Health

Women who have had vascular problems during pregnancy may be at higher risk for cardiovascular disease years later. A multidisciplinary MWRI team received a $3.7M grant from the American Heart Association to examine cardiovascular disease and its early risks and causes through the lens of pregnancy. MWRI is one of five centers funded by the American Heart Association that is studying heart disease in women, and the only one looking at women in pregnancy.

Family Tradition Provides Support to Opiate Dependent Infants: Through a tradition started by her grandparents, Samantha Unger's family picks a charity to donate to each Christmas. This year, they made a gift to provide comfort items to babies born opiate dependent at Magee-Womens Hospital of UPMC. Providing Smiles During Chemo Treatments:
 The Knight family fundraised through Thirty-One Gifts to put together tote bags full of goodies for Magee patients receiving chemotherapy treatments. Kerry Knight was inspired to give in honor of her mother who had breast cancer and her sister who is currently going through treatment at Magee-Womens Hospital of UPMC.

Rocking Out for Women's Health: Gender disparities exist in the music industry and in funding for health research. To combat these inequalities, the first annual Women Who Rock event was held to celebrate women in music and raise money for women's health research. More than $3,000 was raised and was matched by UPMC.

Running in Memory of a Friend: For the last five years, Carolyn Newkirk runs the Pittsburgh Marathon in memory of her daughter's friend's mother, Christina Radzilowicz, who lost her battle to ovarian cancer in 2013. Carolyn completed the 2017 marathon in May and raised funds to support gynecologic research.
